Dec. 17 Public Forums Seek Feedback on Farmers Market

FAYETTEVILLE – Cumberland County Cooperative Extension will hold two public forums on Dec. 17 to gather feedback as part of a feasibility study to determine the most suitable site for a farmers market for the Fayetteville/Cumberland County community.

The public is invited to the following forums:

- 9 a.m. in the parlor of Highland Presbyterian Church, 111 Highland Ave, Fayetteville. For convenience, use the church office side entrance to reach the parlor.
- 6:30 p.m. at Fayetteville Church of the Nazarene, 1844 Rayconda Road, Fayetteville.

Cooperative Extension received a grant to conduct a feasibility study to research the best location or multiple locations for establishing a farmers market. Representatives from Earthwise, the consulting firm overseeing the study, will facilitate the forums.

“Obtaining feedback from community members is an important tool in ensuring a successful study. We want to hear from consumers and this is a chance for them to voice their views,” said Cumberland County Extension Director Lisa Childers.

For more information about the study and Cooperative Extension, contact 321-6405.
