Potential Rabies Exposure after Fox Bites Child

FAYETTEVILLE (March 20, 2015) – A fox jumped the fence at E.E. Miller Elementary School at 1361 Rim Road today and bit an 8-year-old student about 4 p.m. Animal Control officers have captured the fox, which ran into nearby woods, and will be sending the animal to the State Public Health Lab in Raleigh for rabies testing.

The child's parent has been advised to seek medical treatment for the child.

The public is advised to be cautious. All pet owners are urged to check the vaccination status of their pets. If pets are not vaccinated or are due for a booster shot, they should be taken to a local veterinarian for rabies vaccination immediately.

Avoiding wild animals and keeping your distance from stray dogs and cats is the first step in preventing an animal bite. Any pet, which appears to have been in a fight while outside, should be handled very cautiously and seen by a veterinarian.

The first sign of rabies in animals is a change in behavior. Animals may become aggressive, attacking for no reason, or they may become very quiet. Wild animals can lose their fear of people and act tame. Rabid animals may walk in a circle, drag a leg, or fall over. Some cannot swallow so they are not able to eat or drink and often drool. Animals usually die within a week after first becoming ill.

If you are bitten or scratched by an animal:
